Art Unit: 3682

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Heshmat et al.

4,465,384. Heshmat discloses a foil bearing comprising a stationary mount member (12) surrounding an outer circumferential surface of a journal (15) of a rotating member via an annular gap, and a plurality of centripetal force producing foils (16, 17, 18) arranged in the annular gap so as to oppose a substantially entire part of the outer circumferential surface of the journal, wherein the stationary mount member is provided with a plurality of circumferentially arranged through-holes (37) at an axially middle portion thereof, and wherein the centripetal force producing foils comprise members which are axially space apart (at 36, figure2) at a position where the through-holes are located.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claim 5 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Heshmat et al.

4,465,384. With respect to claim 5, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the inner surface of the stationary member of Heshmat to include a circumferentially extending groove because the use of a circumferential groove, or plenum to connect input feeding ports is notoriously old and well known.

Art Unit: 3682

Claims 2-4 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

As allowable subject matter has been indicated, applicant's reply must either comply with all formal requirements or specifically traverse each requirement not complied with. See 37 CFR 1.111(b) and MPEP § 707.07(a).

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.
